

Thinking Creatively to Create Better Outcomes

Osborne Property Services believes that contracting is about thinking creatively as well as implementing systematically. Bringing innovative thinking to our contracts gives us greater freedom to make decisions that enhance safety and asset efficiency for our clients and customers.

Thinking imaginatively, using new ideas instead of traditional ones, means we can explore new routes to meet the needs of our customers, for the wellbeing of all.

We take the widest possible view of any project - and its potential impact on all involved - to ensure that we achieve the best results for all parties.

For instance, when it comes to new materials, we are constantly on the lookout for new structural and fabric parts to determine if they deliver higher performance. We look at these not just in terms of cost, with reference to installation and maintenance, but also across the lifetime of the project. This keeps us ahead of our competitors, and at the cutting edge of the industry as a whole.

We look beyond materials and are continuously assessing new methods of delivery. With new and evolving technologies such as offsite manufactured construction becoming more mainstream and cost effective, we are constantly on the lookout for more efficient, cheaper, longer-lasting, safer and more eco-friendly ways of doing things.

When it comes to caring for the environment, we are always critically aware of how important sustainability is for everyone on the planet.

With this as an essential plank of our thinking, we evaluate parts and materials with the long-term impact on the globe as a crucial part and parcel of our approach.

We also have invested in a fully electric fleet of vehicles and journey planning software to limit the number of journeys our staff take, and to optimise routes, to make sure we have as little impact on the world as we can possibly have.

With creativity as a prism with which to view the world, we believe that Osborne Property Services brings new ways of doing business to create greater benefits for all.
